Run 6 – Hittite law and ritual (report: `run-6.md`) 3

Collected by the Round 4 orchestrator from the runs' reports (guidelines §5.1a). Minor questions were settled by the orchestrator or the runs themselves (the user's standing rule, STATUS §6) and are recorded in each run's report.

Run 1 – the Ugaritic myths (report: `run-1.md`)

Settled by the orchestrator (minor, under the user's standing rule): the run's 21 philological cruxes (its "Questions for the user" table: nʾl il, ḫnzr, psltm, mtm, bṯ, bʾlm, yw, l ydʿt, mt "husband", the damaged ṣlmm, …) are matters of reading, each translated with the defensible choice first and the alternative in its note (guidelines §6.8, a crux). They stay as drafted; the user may revisit any of them when reviewing the draft. The yw note (most scholars reject a link with YHWH) stays as written.

No question from run 1 needs the user.

Run 3 – Egyptian wisdom and creation (report: `run-3.md`)

Settled by the orchestrator (minor, under the user's standing rule): the run's five optional points are kept as drafted – Amenemope's twr split by construction (`נָטַהַר` / `הוֹקִיר` / `הִנָּזֵר מִן`: no one Hebrew verb holds all three senses); "true of voice" in AM 2.8, 2.12 left open in the notes; the Memphite Theology's ḥtp = `נח` in every verbal use (so Ptah's "rest" in line 59 stays visible as the same word – the comparison with Gen 2:2 needs it); the Heavenly

Cow 15, 27 on the TLA's reading, marked `?`, with Hornung's in the note; Merikare E134 on the base text (pCarlsberg), with pMoscow's "in the egg" in the note.

No question from run 3 needs the user.

Run 4 – Hesiod (report: `run-4.md`)

For the user (optional; nothing waits on it – the current choice is in place and reversible by one table edit and a script pass):

1. Hesiod's speaking names – the cosmic names and abstractions are translated as names, without the article
   (Χάος `פַּעַר`, Γαῖα `אֶרֶץ`, Οὐρανός `שָׁמַיִם`, Νύξ `לַיְלָה`, Ἔρις `מָדוֹן`, Δίκη `מִשְׁפָּט` …), as West and Most do in English, so the reader hears what a Greek hearer heard. The alternative is to transcribe every name (`גַּאיָה`, `כָּאוֹס`, `אוּרָנוֹס` …), as the existing Hebrew translations do. Which should the Hebrew reader meet? (`הסיודוס/renderings.md`
   §3.2, §12.1)

Settled by the orchestrator (minor): the command infinitive as the infinitive absolute (`עָבוֹד`, `קָצוֹר`) stays – it is the closest Hebrew to the Greek form and it reads as elevated, not as an error; αἰδώς `בּוּשָׁה`, τιμαί `זָכְיוֹת`, εὐδαίμων `בַּר־מַזָּל` stay, each with its note; the folder's spelling stays as it is (`אשה`; qamaṣ qaṭan per the existing corpora); lines the base does not bracket stay without `{חשודה}`, with the modern athetesis in the note.

Run 5 – Erra and Išum (report: `run-5.md`)

No question for the user. Tablet I (191 lines) is done; Tablets II–V wait for eBL's edition (none open; recorded in `sources/_records-only--Erra-and-Ishum-II-V/`). Decided by the orchestrator: the freed slot is not filled with a quick win (the Poor Man of Nippur stays a quick win for a later session): with the seven-day quota near its warning line, the remaining planned run (Hittite) goes first.

Run 6 – Hittite law and ritual (report: `run-6.md`)

No question for the user. (The modern editions that would check our two composites – Hoffner 1997, Miller 2013, Taggar-Cohen 2006 … – are © and are not bought, per the standing rule; the cruxes they would settle are marked in the texts.) Ḫedammu, left by run 1's dossier to this run, was not done (no open clause edition) – left for a later round.
