Written by the Round 4 orchestrator (session `session_014fjMvYA3g5H4wByR5wpQt5`), 2026-10-23. The plan row makes this run conditional on an open base text; the check below found none, so the round goes on to run 3, and the Edict stays
"waiting on access" (the user's rule: no purchases).

Nothing translated. The availability check only.

The check (2026-10-23)

Where	Result
CDLI (`cdli.earth`, up again since the 503 of 2026-10-22)	The tablets are catalogued – BM 078259 = P594313 (genre "Royal Inscription"), BM 080289 = P595447 (Finkelstein 1969's text, catalogued as "Administrative") – but neither has a transliteration (no ATF in `/artifacts/<id>/json`, no publications linked). Ni 632 in CDLI is an unrelated Ur III text (P127743).
eBL	No chapter for the Edict or any mīšarum / andurāru edict (`ebl_fetch.py --list`).
archive.org	Kraus 1958, Ein Edikt des Königs Ammi-Ṣaduqa von Babylon (`einediktdesknigs0000ammi`): lending-only (`inlibrary`, access-restricted) – recorded, not used (guidelines §2.3).
Zenodo, a web search	Nothing. Kraus 1984 (Königliche Verfügungen, SD 11), Finkelstein 1961 (JCS 15) and 1969 (RA 63) are © and not openly available.
ORACC	Unreachable from this environment (curl exit 60); in any case no Edict project is known there.

Verification

Not applicable.

Key findings

None (not translated).

Decisions taken

Skipped, per the plan row; the Edict stays "waiting on access". Re-check when CDLI adds a transliteration for P594313 /
P595447, or when an open edition appears.

Questions for the user

None. (Buying Kraus 1984 or Finkelstein's articles would be the user's decision, but the standing rule is no purchases.)

Problems and skipped items

The whole run.

Cross-corpus splits left for the lead

None.
