Mittermayer 2009 — Enmerkara und der Herr von Arata: Ein ungleicher Wettstreit (OBO 239)

▼ Contents

Files (git-ignored) 1
Line numbering 2
Usefulness 2

- Author: Catherine Mittermayer. Orbis Biblicus et Orientalis 239. Fribourg: Academic Press / Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 2009. ISBN 978-3-7278-1652-9. 433 pp. (PDF).
- URL: ZORA (University of Zurich), item `f8f9a243-798c-4990-91e0-9f6f332a9864`, https://www.zora.uzh.ch/handle/20.500.14742/132426 , DOI 10.5167/uzh-139535; PDF via the DSpace API `https://www.zora.uzh.ch/server/api/core/bitstreams/73c3fd8b-32cc-48c0-9f25-7f7a912c966c/content` (8.75 MB).
- Retrieved: 2026-10-21.
- Licence: open access ("Green", ZORA rights check "offen"); no Creative Commons licence stated → git-ignored
  (this folder's `.gitignore`), like Lenzi 2023. Quote only briefly, with attribution.

Files (git-ignored)

- `Mittermayer_2009_Enmerkara_und_der_Herr_von_Arata.pdf` — the book: introduction (history of research, the manuscripts, Arata, the "Namšub des Nudimmud", the invention of writing), 9. Rekonstruierter Text mit Übersetzung
  (pp. 114–153: composite and German translation), 10. Partitur (pp. 154–219: the score of all manuscripts),
  11. Kommentar (pp. 220 ff.), indexes, plates (copies of the Ur tablets UET 6).
- `mittermayer-2009.txt` — `pdftotext -layout` of the PDF. The OCR layer is poor for the Sumerian (spaced or merged signs, indices as plain digits, misread diacritics); the German translation and the commentary are mostly readable. Never take a Sumerian reading from this text file without checking the PDF page.

Line numbering

Mittermayer numbers the composite 1–636+ like ETCSL (which follows Cohen 1973 and Vanstiphout); her notes flag the lines a single manuscript adds (e.g. after l. 11 = ETCSL 11A). Align by content where they differ.

Usefulness

The current critical edition (rank 1 for readings, rank 3 for the translation, rank 4 for the commentary) of Enmerkar and the Lord of Aratta: used in `/אגדות-מלכים/1-אנמרכר-ואדון-ארטה` as the second opinion on every line
(after our own reading of ETCSL + ORACC), and for the cruxes (the Nudimmud spell 134–155, the invention of writing 500–506, the end 588–636).