Peter Jensen, Assyrisch-babylonische Mythen und Epen (KB VI/1, Berlin 1900)

- Editor/translator: Peter Jensen (1861–1936)
- Series/publisher: Keilinschriftliche Bibliothek VI/1, ed. E. Schrader; Berlin: Reuther & Reichard, 1900. Transliteration with a facing German translation. In the "Gilgamiš (Nimrod)-Epos" section, Tafel XI is on pp. 228–257 (checked against the running heads and against Muss-Arnolt 1901).
- URL: https://archive.org/details/assyrischbabylo00jensgoog (Google scan; archive.org flags it NOT_IN_COPYRIGHT). Alternative scans: archive.org/details/assyrischbabylon0000unse, bwb_KV-326-451.
- Retrieved: 2026-10-16
- License / copyright: Public domain.

Files

- `assyrischbabylo00jensgoog.pdf`: full volume (19 MB).
- `assyrischbabylo00jensgoog_djvu.ocr.txt`: OCR of the whole volume.
- `tablet-XI.ocr.md`: OCR lines 15470–17297 (end of Tafel X, then Tafel XI). The OCR of the transliteration is very poor (š, ṣ and determinatives garbled). Use the PDF images (pp. 228–257).

Line numbering

Jensen uses Haupt's numbering (close to Thompson's; behind George by up to ~10 lines in the 190s).

Assessment

This was the first full scientific transliteration and translation of the whole SB epic and the foundation for Ungnad and others. Its readings are obsolete: names such as Ṣit-napištim/UT-napištim, Ninib, Ia-bani (= Enkidu), Irkalla; Jensen's eccentric theories. It is of historical value only, but it is the edition Tchernichovsky's circle knew (Simchoni cites it).