William Muss-Arnolt, "The Babylonian Nimrod Epic" in R. F. Harper (ed.), Assyrian and Babylonian Literature: Selected Translations (New York: Appleton, 1901)

- Translator: William Muss-Arnolt (1858–1927). The volume is ed. Robert Francis Harper (World's Great Books / Aldine edition).
- URL: https://archive.org/details/cu31924083983944 (Cornell, full view). Other copies: babylonianassyri00wilsuoft etc. (the "Babylonian and Assyrian Literature … Epic of Izdubar" 1901 volume is a different anthology, ed. Epiphanius Wilson).
- Retrieved: 2026-10-16
- License / copyright: Public domain.

Files

- `cu31924083983944.pdf`: whole volume (20 MB).
- `cu31924083983944_djvu.ocr.txt`: OCR of the whole volume.
- `tablet-XI.ocr.md`: OCR lines 21919–22771 = Tablet XI (with Muss-Arnolt's bibliographic introduction to XI and the translation). Uncorrected OCR.

Line numbering

Muss-Arnolt uses Haupt's numbering (like Jensen and Ungnad); see the Heidel README for the offsets against George.

Assessment

A competent American translation c. 1900 (based on Haupt and Jensen) with a useful bibliography of 19th-century flood translations. It is obsolete philologically (Nimrod-epic, Ṣît-napištim, Ninib, Nisir) and of historical value only.