A. R. George, "SB Gilgamesh XI, score transliteration" (SOAS, 2007)

- Editor: Andrew R. George (SOAS, University of London)
- What it is: A synoptic ("score") transliteration of every manuscript of SB Tablet XI, line by line: Nineveh C, J, T, W; Assur b, c; Nimrud z; Babylon j; and catch-lines. These are the working scores behind George's Babylonian Gilgamesh Epic (OUP 2003). It contains no translation. It complements the eBL composite text, which is saved elsewhere and not touched here.

SOAS moved to https://soas-repository.worktribe.com/ (Cloudflare-protected; search there for "SB Gilgamesh XI, score transliteration").
  - The same PDF was linked from SOAS's former Gilgamesh page https://www.soas.ac.uk/gilgamesh/standard/ as `file39599.pdf`. That page now returns 404.

Files

- `SB_XI_Score.pdf`: original PDF (Word → PDF, 13 Mar 2007).
- `SB_XI_Score.layout.txt`: `pdftotext -layout` extraction. Warning: George's custom transliteration font does not map to Unicode, so š/ṣ/ṭ/ḫ and determinatives come out garbled (e.g. `∞`=Š in logograms, `·`=š, `¿`=ḫ, `◊`=ṣ, `fl`=ṭ, `«...»`=half-brackets). Line numbers, sigla and column references are reliable. For readings, use the PDF.
- `eprints-soas-3349.raw.html`: the eprints record page (Wayback, Dec 2024).
- `soas-gilgamesh-standard-page-2016.raw.html`: SOAS "Standard Babylonian Gilgamesh" page that lists the 12 score PDFs (Wayback 2016).

Line numbering

This is George's numbering (= BGE 2003 = eBL), lines 1–328 + catch-line. Landmarks used in the other READMEs: Puzur-[Enlil] 95; storm 6 days 7 nights 128; Nimuš 142–146; dove 148–149; Atra-hasis 197; "previously Ūta-napišti was a mortal" 203; "mouth of the rivers" 205–206.

Assessment

This is the authoritative manuscript-level evidence: it shows which manuscript has which reading and where the composite is restored. It is essential for checking any doubtful reading in the eBL composite.
