Livius.org – "The Great Flood: Gilgameš" (Tablet XI)

- Page: https://www.livius.org/articles/misc/great-flood/flood3_t-gilgamesh/ (Jona Lendering, Livius.org)
- Translator: M. G. Kovacs (1989), "with some small adaptations" (Livius's own words). Names are normalized to Ut-napištim, Šuruppak, Gilgameš. Livius adds line markers `[11.n]` and explanatory notes.
- Retrieved: 2026-10-16
- License / copyright: COPYRIGHTED (Kovacs/Stanford UP translation; Livius page content © Livius.org). Private research use only.

Files

- `livius--flood3_t-gilgamesh.raw.html`: raw HTML.
- `tablet-XI.md`: clean extraction of the article and translation. `^note[...]` = Livius footnotes.

Line numbering

The `[11.n]` markers roughly follow the traditional (Thompson/Kovacs) count. They are close to George up to ~150 and then about 1 line behind (e.g. [11.202] "Previously Ut-napištim was a human being" = George XI 203).

Assessment

This is the same text as Kovacs, but the line markers make it the handiest way to locate Kovacs lines. It adds no independent philological value.