Gilg. OB II | Sources of Early Akkadian Literature

Source: https://seal.huji.ac.il/node/1830 (SEAL – Sources of Early Akkadian Literature, ed. M. P. Streck & N. Wasserman). Clean extraction of `node-1830--Gilg-OB-II.html` by `tools/seal2md.py`. Conventions: `_..._` = italic on the site (Akkadian words); `{...}` = superscript (determinatives); a line with an empty label continues the previous one (e.g. the Akkadian of a bilingual line); `lemmas:` = SEAL's lemmatization (form = lemma "meaning").

1 Gilgameš arose and revealed a dream,
2 said to his mother:
3 “My mother, during the course of this night
4 I walked about lustily
5 in the company of young men.
6 The stars of the sky hid from me,
7 The flesh of Anum fell down before me.
8 I tried to lift it but it grew too heavy for me,
9 I tried to push it but I could not move it.
10 The land of Uruk was gathered about it,
11 the young men kissing its feet.
12 I braced my forehead and
13 they supported me,
14 I picked it up and carried it off to you.”
15 The mother of Gilgameš, well versed in everything,
16 said to Gilgameš::
17 “For sure, Gilgameš, one like yourself,
18 was born in the wild and
19 the upland reared him.
20 You will see him and you will rejoice,
21 the young men will kiss his feet.
22 You will hug him and
23 bring him to me.
24 He lay down and saw another (dream).
25 He arose, talked to his mother:
26 “My mother, I have seen another (dream).
27 [...] ... in the street
28 of Uruk-Main-Street
29 an axe was lying and
30 (people) were gathered around it.
31 The axe itself, it’s appearance was strange.
32 I saw it and became glad.
33–34 I loved it, moaning over it as over a wife

35 I took it up and put it
36 at my side.”
37 The mother of Gilgameš, well versed in everything,
38 [said] to [Gilgameš:]
39–42 Lost.

43 “because he will make himself your equal.”
44 As Gilgameš was relating the dream,
45 Enkidu was sitting before the harlot.
46 As the two of them were making love together,
47 he forgot the wild where he was born.
48 For seven days and seven nights
49 Enkidu was erect and
50 coupled with Šamkatum.
51 The harlot opened her mouth and
52 said to Enkidu:
53 “I look at you, Enkidu, you are like a god.
54 Why with the animals
55 do you range through the wild?
56 Come, I will lead you
57 to Uruk-Main-Street,
58 to the sacred temple, the home of Anum.
59 Enkidu, arise, I will take you
60 to E-anna, the home of Anum.
61 Where (men) are engaged in labours of skill,
62 you, too, [like a] true man,
63 will [make a place for] yourself.
64_ You are going_ on a ground
66 He heard her words, he consented to what she said.
67 The woman’s counsel
68 struck home in his heart.
69 She stripped off her clothing,
70 dressed him in one part,
71 the other part
72 she put on herself.
73 She held his hand
74 like a god, leading him
75 to the shepherd’s camp,
76 the site of the sheep-pen.
77 The shepherds gathered about him,

78 like [...]

80 “[In build he is the equal of Gilgameš,]

85 the milk of the animals
86 he used to suck.”
87 They put bread before him.
88 He narrowed (his eyes), gazing
89 and staring.
90 Enkidu did not know
91 the bread for eating,
92 the ale for drinking
93 he had never been shown.
94 The harlot opend her mouth and
95 said to Enkidu:
96 “Eat the bread, Enkidu,
97 the thing proper to life
98 drink the ale, the lot of the land.”
99 Enkidu ate the bread
100 until he was sated,
101 he drank the ale,
102 seven jugs (full).
103 His mood became free, he was singing,
104 his heart became merry and
105 his face shone bright.
106 The barber treated
107 his body so hairy,
108 he anointed himself with oil and
109 became a human being,
110 he put on a garment,
111 becoming like a man.
112 He took up his weapon,
113 fought with the lions.
114 Then the shepherds could rest at night (again).
115 He massacred the wolves,
116 chased off the lions.

117 Then the senior herdsmen could sleep (again).
118 Enkidu was their watchman,
119 a man wide awake,
120 a unique fellow.

135 while, with Šamkatum,
136 he was pleasuring himself.
137 He lifted his eyes and
138 saw a man.
139 He said to the harlot:
140 “Šamkatum, bring the man over:
141 why he came here,
142 I would hear his reason.”
143 The harlot hailed the man,
144 she went up to him and talked to him:
145 “Fellow, where do you hurry to?
146 What is your toilsome journey?”
147 The fellow opened his mouth and
148 said to Enkidu:
149 “I have been invited to a wedding ceremony
150 it is the lot of the people
151 to take a bride in marriage.
152 I shall load the ceremonial table
153 with tempting foods for the wedding feast.
154 For the king of Uruk-Main-Street,
155 the people’s net will be open for the one who has first pick.
156 For Gilgameš, the king of Uruk-Main-Street,
157 the people’s net will be open
158 for the one who has first pick.
159 He will couple with (the groom’s) allotted wife:
160 he first of all,
161 the bridegroom afterwards.
162 By divine consent it is ordained
163 when his navel-cord was cut
164 she was destined for him.”
165 At the fellow’s words
166 his face turned pale.

175 There goes [Enkidu]
176 with Šamkatum following him.
177 He entered Uruk-Main-Street,
178 a crowd gathered behind him.
179 He stood there in the street
180 of Uruk-Main-Street, and
181 the people were gathered and
182 talked behind him:
183 “In build he is the equal of Gilgameš,
184 (but) shorter in stature,
185 sturdier of bone.
186 For [sure he is one who] was born
187 in the upland,
188 the milk of the animals
189 he used to suck.”
190 Sacrifices were held regularly in Uruk:
191 the young men disported themselves.
192 The lušānum-instrument was ready
193 for the fellow with fair features.
194 For Gilgameš, like for a god,
195 an offering was presented.
196 For Išḫara the bed
197 was laid out,
198 Gilgameš would meet
199 with the young woman by night.
200 He came forward and
201 stood in the street
202 he blocked the path
203 of Gilgameš,
204 while [the young men] were discussing him.

211 he was growing angry [...]
212 Enkidu moved

213 towards him,
214 they confronted each other in the Main-Street-of-the-Land.
215 Enkidu blocked the doorway
216 with his foot,
217 he did not allow Gilgameš to enter.
218 The grappeled each other, like a bull
219 bending their backs,
220 they smashed the door jamb,
221 the wall quaked.
222 Gilgameš and Enkidu
223 grappeled each other,
224 bending their backs like a bull,
225 they smashed the door jamb,
226 the wall quaked.
227 Gilgameš knelt,
228 his (other) foot on the ground,
229 his anger subsided and
230 he turned his breast away.
231 After he had turned away his breast,
232 Enkidu said
233 to him, to Gilgameš:
234 “As one unique your mother
235 has born you,
236 the wild cow of the fold,
237 Ninsuna.
238 You are exalted over men:
239 the kingship of the people
240 Enlil fixed you as your lot.”
