Project 2: the Sumerian proverbs (ETCSL 6.1.01 complete; selections from 6.1.02 and 6.1.03)

Scope

- Collection 1 (ETCSL 6.1.01), complete: 194 proverbs, 348 composite lines (segments A–G; the two "X X" variant lines C.A–C.B that ETCSL's converter drops are untranslatable).
- Collection 2 (+6) (6.1.02): a selection of 51 proverbs (92 lines) – the poor man (2.15–2.34), the scribe (2.37–2.54), the fox (2.58–2.69), lies (2.71–2.72), the donkey and the ox (2.75, 2.81–2.82, 2.93), the city of the lame (2.118–2.119 = 1.65–1.66), good and bad, marriage and divorce (2.121–2.124), the house (2.138–2.146), the palace (2.155–2.160).
- Collection 3 (6.1.03): a selection of 32 proverbs (60 lines) – the son whose god has turned (3.5), "I will go tomorrow" (3.6), the heir (3.9), eating modestly (3.15), friendship (3.16–3.17), the open hand (3.22), wealth (3.23), the slave girl and the lady (3.41), the daughter-in-law (3.44), lies (3.55), the merchant (3.64), measure for measure (3.69), the king and the cupbearer (3.86), the garrulous (3.97, 3.103), the mother's care (3.112), the tongue (3.114), the false witness (3.118), the aching heart (3.127), the personal god as shepherd (3.134), the good word (3.159–3.160), the "abominations" of the gods (3.170, 3.171, 3.175), fate (3.176), the uttered word (3.177), the price of free and slave labour (3.183), justice (3.190).

Alster 1997 (Proverbs of Ancient Sumer) and Gordon 1959 are © and not owned (records only).

Base text

ETCSL 6.1.01–03 (`../../sources/ETCSL/6.1.0N--.../`, CC BY-NC-SA) with ORACC epsd2/literary Q000795–Q000797 (lemma + morph for every word, `../../sources/ORACC/epsd2-literary--Q00079N--.../`, CC0). ETCSL's English is rank 3.

Line numbering

ETCSL composite lines with the segment letter (`A1` … `D138`, `E1`, `F1`, `G1`): ETCSL restarts the count in each segment. The proverb number (`1.9`, from the TEI `<lg n>`) is the unit: the clean translation prints it before the proverb's first line. Files: `annotated-c1-1.rtl.md` (A1–A82: 1.1–1.?), `annotated-c1-2.rtl.md` (segment B), `annotated-c1-3.rtl.md` (segments C–G), `annotated-c2.rtl.md`, `annotated-c3.rtl.md`.

Repeated lines

1.65–1.66 = 2.118–2.119 (the city without dogs, the city of the lame): identical Hebrew. 1.152–1.153 and 3.9 (ezen nu-tuku); 1.165 ≈ 3.65 (the merchant; 3.65 not selected).

Open decisions

(Filled during drafting.)

Progress

(Filled per range.)